

REPOWERING

UPFITTED VEHICLES

Sometimes, it's what's on the outside that counts. That's the way it is with upfitted vehicles. Whether you're responsible for a fleet of ambulances, armored cars or utility vehicles, you know that such a sizable investment has been made on the components that were added to the original vehicle that the added parts are more valuable than the original vehicle ever was.

That's where a partnership with a strong engine remanufacturer can be so valuable.

Our experience working with the automakers themselves and our pioneering advancements in engine remanufacturing technology, allow us to make the highest-quality replacement engines anywhere – and to sell them at prices that represent true value.
